

The St Mary's Centre launches new Religion, Values and Human Rights project

Tania ap Sion

This September marks the launch of a new Religion, Values and Human Rights project in Wales and England.

The project is being sponsored by the St Mary's Centre to help us hear what young people are really saying about religion, values and human rights today. The questionnaire has been designed by Professor Hans-Georg Ziebertz (Wuerzburg University, Germany) and Professor Leslie J Francis (St Mary's Centre, UK) specifically for use among 16-18 year old students attending sixth forms and colleges across Europe.

The first project ran between 2008 and 2012 and resulted in three books belonging to the series Empirical Research in Religion and Human Rights published by Brill. This second project began in 2012 and involves 18 nations across Europe. It is hoped that Wales and England will be well represented in this new study.

If you are interested in participating in the survey (during the autumn term 2014), please contact Margaret West, Research Support Officer at the St Mary's Centre:
